Arismendez Named TDLR Executive Director Effective February 1, 2022

AUSTIN – Mike Arismendez, a current deputy executive director of the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation (TDLR), has been named executive director effective Feb. 1, 2022. He replaces TDLR Executive Director Brian E. Francis, whose retirement becomes effective Jan. 31, 2022.

Arismendez was appointed executive director by the Texas Commission of Licensing and Regulation by a unanimous vote during a meeting on Dec. 27, 2021. Commissioners thanked Francis for his leadership of the agency and welcomed Arismendez to the helm of the agency.

“Although no one can replace Brian Francis, the Commission is excited to see where Mike Arismendez will take TDLR in the future by building on the legacies of former director Bill Kuntz and Brian. The agency will benefit from Mike’s experience as a member and chair of the Commission of Licensing and Regulation and as a deputy executive director. He is well-prepared to lead TDLR to the next iteration of excellence in its service to the people of Texas,” said Rick Figueroa, chair of the Commission.

Arismendez was hired as TDLR’s Deputy Executive Director in March 2019. He previously served as City Manager for the City of Littlefield, Assistant to the City Council for the City of Lubbock, Mayor of the City of Shallowater, and legislative director for State Representative Carl H. Isett. Arismendez was appointed to the TDLR Commission in 2005 by Governor Rick Perry and was then appointed Chairman in 2014 by Governor Greg Abbott.

“I am humbled to be appointed as Executive Director at such a prestigious and visionary state agency. Through all my years of involvement with TDLR, I have come to know that TDLR seeks to provide the best customer service to the business community in Texas while protecting the people of Texas. I look forward to maintaining the integrity and success of this agency in my new role,” Arismendez said.

Arismendez currently serves as the Chairman for the Hutto Economic Development Corporation, as well as Secretary/Treasurer for both the River Creek Development Corporation and Cottonwood Development Corporation for the City of Hutto.
